Welcome back. We hope you have had a restful and enjoyable half term holiday

Parent Consultations

To cope with the demand for parental consultations we have decided to hold a second afternoon for all classes. For Reception, Years 1 and 2 this will be Wednesday 15th November. For Mrs Kassam's and Mrs Cox's classes, Monday 13th. November; for the rest of Years 3, 4, 5 and 6 Tuesday 14th. Consultations run from 1.45-4.30 on these days.

Fireworks

There will be many fireworks this weekend, so please remember how dangerous fireworks can be and that they should always be treated carefully and with respect. Earlier this week there was some very silly behaviour with fireworks in our area and former pupil Andrew Boldero suffered severe burns to his face. Never handle a lit firework and please ensure that children watch from a safe distance.

The Book Trust has some great ideas and tips for helping parents to read with their children and some inspiring stories of how parents have helped their children by reading to them. Read about how Laura, a mum from Manchester, turned her daughter from a very poor reader who was lagging behind the others in her class, into a real high flyer here:

Blog Comment of the Week

www.ctreading.net

Abigail Flitcroft, in Mrs Gooch's class, posted a story on her class blog just before half-term and Lisa Thompson, well-known author of "Goldfish Boy" read it and left a comment! "What an exciting story!" Lisa wrote, "There is a great sense of urgency and suspense... what is going to happen next?"

Well done, Abi!

Blog of the Week

There have been some great blog entries this week. Highlights include Miss Mather's class with loads of pictures of their exciting activities, a super post from Marcus Gray in Mr Krasnopolski's class, and some great work from Mrs Kassam's class. But blog of the week this week goes to Mr Cosgrove's class with Angel Nwokporo as our

What Will it Mean for You?

If you are unsure, or worried about what the changes will mean for you, there is help and information available. There is a meeting open to all Whitley parents as follows:

Community Cafe (South Reading Community Centre),
Northumberland Avenue

Monday 11th December 10.30am - 12 noon.

Headlice

We have had several cases of headlice in the school in recent weeks. Please would all parents make a point of checking hair and treating if necessary.

School Meals

From December 1st. School meals will cost £2.05 each day. We apologise that it is necessary to make this increase, but meals are still cheaper than two years ago.

Barbie Clothes

Do you have any clothes for Barbie dolls that you no longer need? If so, After School Club would love to have them. Please bring them in to the main office.

Moonbase Challenge

All the children from Reception to Year 6 have been working today on a "Moonbase Challenge" working in teams to design and equip a space colony. The children have had great fun and worked really well, learning the skills of work situations. Photos will be on our website by Monday.

Congratulations!

Emily McAuley, Who performed brilliantly in a recent feis coming away with three super medals for her heavy jig, her slip jig and her reel.

Marvellous Agyel Opoku, who has gained his "Animal Agent" medal in Reading libraries' reading challenge.

The Year 5/6 football team, who triumphed 4 - 1 over Springfield School from Tilehurst in a cup match on Wednesday.
